

Are You Keeping Your Employees Safe?

For more than 20 years, Hellman & Associates (H&A) has worked closely with companies like yours to develop a deep culture of safety and make your employees safe at work.

Our experienced team has seen the results of poor safety programs.

The manufacturing industry is one of the most at-risk groups for safety concerns:

Serious workplace injuries cost US manufacturers more than $7 billion each year

(Liberty Mutual 2019 Workplace Safety Index)

40% of manufacturing injuries were the result of employees coming into contact with a dangerous object

(NCS 2013)

100,000+ manufacturing workers suffer a job-related injury each year.

(NSC 2013)

In 2019, the manufacturing industry had about 2x more workplace injuries than those working in construction

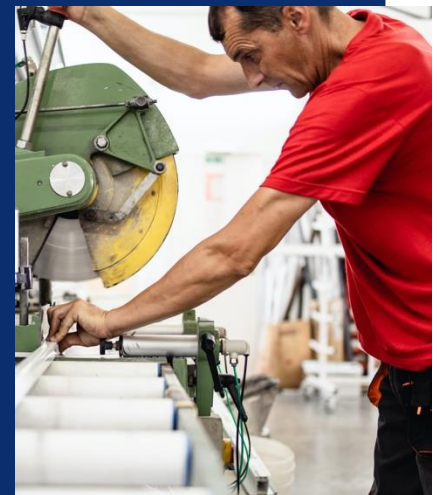

(BLS 2019)

With H&A on your team, you can feel confident your safety is in good hands.

Your employees want to feel confident their safety is in good hands. But safety is complex, with a lot of moving parts, including:

- ✔ Leadership Support
- ✔ Employee Participation
- ✔ Hazard ID and Assessment
- ✔ Hazard Prevention and Control
- ✔ Education and Training
- ✔ Program Evaluation and Improvement
- ✔ Communication and Coordination of Contractors and Staffing Agencies

Relying on one full-time employee to juggle all these areas can often lead to lost productivity, employee injuries, increased insurance costs, business interruption, and fatalities.

Hellman & Associates Make Safety Easy

At H&A, safety isn't just our job, it's our passion. We spend every day thinking about the safety changes that may impact our clients, anticipate safety risks and mitigate incidents to ensure every employee goes home healthy to their family at the end of their day.

When you partner with H&A, we will help you create and maintain a culture and environment built on health & safety best practices. We take a personal approach to learning your business and becoming a seamless part of your team. If during our safety management efforts you receive a safety citation, we pay it for you—guaranteed.

Our proven safety management system has been implemented in over 200 businesses across manufacturing and distribution, healthcare and life sciences, emerging technology, and construction industries. We've been doing health and safety for over 20 years helping customers like you build and maintain their employee safety programs and culture. Our team stays current on trends and changes small and large, how those will impact you and how to adjust to keep your employees safe.

After partnering with H&A, Noffsinger Manufacturing experienced its first injury-free year in company history

We work together to create a unique action plan that protects your organization and is designed to ensure your employees get home safely every night.

We use H&A's proprietary technology, ASSUREDCompliance SoftwareTM (ACS), to track training and tasks across multiple locations, keeping you compliant across your organization, even if you aren't there.

The Safety of Your Employees is Our Priority

For about a third the cost of an in-house safety manager, you gain access to a team of EHS experts who understand your organization and employees, so we can operate as an extension of your staff. Always available. Always informed.

Our proven safety management system has been thoroughly tested through multiple OSHA investigations with a staggering success rate. Implementing a consistently compliant EHS program, can mean savings overtime. Effective programs have resulted in:

Your employees' safety isn't an area where you should take a gamble. Be confident that your employees are safe, and your business is protected. With a 98% retention rate, our clients agree. Safety doesn't sleep. Neither do we.

“We were living in a state of constant worry that OSHA was going to swoop in and we were woefully unprepared for that. [...] The H&A team provided the technical expertise and skill set we were lacking in-house. They're knowledgeable, possess excellent management skills, and get along well with everybody.”
